Community Forums on SRJC Bond Measure To Be Held in November and December

Santa Rosa, CA - Santa Rosa Junior College (SRJC) invites Sonoma County community members to three Measure H Community Forums, where implementation and current status of Measure H bond projects will be discussed and viewed. All members of the community are welcome to attend this free event.

The Community Forums will provide an opportunity for members of the public to learn about progress and plans for Measure H, the $410 million bond measure to upgrade SRJC facilities and technology. Measure H was approved by voters in November, 2014.

“We are very excited to meet with the public, to let them see how their bond dollars will be spent. We’ve spent the entire last year carefully building SRJC’s Facilities Master Plan to be sure we have prioritized the projects for the maximum benefit to the students (and the community?),” said Leigh Sata, Director of Capital Projects for SRJC. “We especially want to answer any questions and concerns that neighbors and neighborhood groups near SRJC campuses and sites might have.”

The Forums will be held as follows:

Tuesday, November 29, 6:00-7:30 p.m. –Santa Rosa Campus, Lawrence A. Bertolini Student Center

Monday, December 5, 6:00-7:30pm – Petaluma Campus, Herold Mahoney Library

Wednesday, December 14, 5:30-7:00 p.m. – Southwest Center Campus, Heritage Hall, Room 112

Parking will be free at all locations.
